CHAPTER ONE

1.0 INTRODUCTION

1.1 Background

Public participation stands as a fundamental pillar of the 2010 Constitution of Kenya. It embodies a community-driven process where individuals, through grassroots organizations, collaborate with governmental and nongovernmental entities to shape decisions on policy, legislation, service delivery, oversight, and development. The public get intimately involved in the public participation process when the issue at stake relates directly to them. Before the Constitution of Kenya, 2010, planning and implementation of rural development programs was basically the responsibility of the central government.

1.2 Legal Framework

Article 1(2) of the Constitution of Kenya, 2010 states that all sovereign power belongs to the people of Kenya. It further states that people may exercise their sovereignty directly or through their elected representatives. After having already elected representatives, the people ought to directly exercise their sovereignty by being involved in democracy and governance processes at the national and county levels of government. Article 10 (2) indicates that public participation is among the national values and principles of governance. As per Article 174(c), the objects of devolution are to give powers of self-governance to the people and enhance their participation in the exercise of the powers of the State and in making decisions affecting them. Article 174(d) recognizes the rights of communities to manage their own affairs and to further their development. Article 184(1) states that national legislation is to provide for the governance and management of urban areas and cities and shall in particular provide for participation by residents in the governance of urban areas and cities. Article 232(1)(d) provides for the involvement of the people in the process of policy making and part (f) provides for transparency and provision to the public of timely and accurate information. Fourth Schedule Part 2(14) stipulates that the functions and powers of the county are to ensure and coordinate the participation of communities and locations in governance at the local level. Counties are also to assist communities to develop the administrative capacity for the effective exercise of the functions and powers and participation in governance at the local level. The Public Finance Management Act under Section 207 provides that County Governments are to establish structures, mechanisms and guidelines for citizen participation. Under the Urban areas Act, the overarching theme is participation by the residents in the governance of urban areas and cities. The Second Schedule of the Act provides for the rights of, and participation by residents in affairs of their city or urban areas. Similarly, article 125(2) of Public Finance Management Act 2012 states that The County Executive Committee member for finance shall ensure that there is public participation in the budget process.

1.3 Specific Objectives of Budget Public Participation

The following specific objectives were to be achieved:

- To engage stakeholders on identification of new projects, ranking and prioritization and ensure community ownership to strengthen sustainability.

- To ensure openness and accountability in public finance management. This would be achieved through providing stakeholders/community feedbacks on county policies, projects and programmes currently being implemented and the new proposals for Fiscal year 2024/2025.

- To ensure that the county public finance system promotes an equitable society and in particular expenditure that promotes the equitable development of the county, including by making special provision for the marginalized groups and areas. This would be achieved through harmonization and integration of results of the top down and bottom-up planning approaches.

1.4 Rationale for Public Participation

Participatory budgeting aims to:

- Reduce social exclusion and poverty: the traditional budgeting process can sometimes contribute to social exclusion and poverty due to elite capture, limiting resources available for service to the poor. By encouraging citizens‟ participation in budget decision making, participatory budgeting could be used to increase the allocation of resources to basic services in the poorest areas.

- Increase efficiency in budget allocation: the budget is the most accurate statement of the government's priorities. However, budgets sometimes do not reflect the real priorities of citizens. Scarce public resources are often spent on the wrong goods or the wrong people. Public participation can improve efficiency in budget allocation by creating procedures and avenues that bring the demand side closer to budget planning.

- Improve accountability and management: government budgets are often perceived as too complex and technical for citizens‟ understanding. The complexity of budget information can facilitate the concealing of elite capture, budget leakages and under-performance; or it can just be the result of weak management capacity. Participatory budgeting has been used to demystify the budget, and improve inter-departmental coordination, and financial management.
- Increase trust between government and population: citizens often complain that government is not solving their problems and not using their taxes for their needs. Lack of public expenditure information leads to public discontent and inaccurate citizen perceptions of corruption. Participatory budgeting can strengthen trust in government substantially as it encourages citizens and government to discuss budget constraints. This process provides an opportunity for government and citizens to discuss trade – offs on the use of scarce public resources vis- a –vis urgent and strategic investments.
- Strengthen democratic practices: democratic systems are not always perfect. While the budgeting process has an annual decision-making cycle and a continuous execution process, governments are mainly held accountable for their decisions during election time. This time lag can create favourable conditions for elite capture, patronage and clientism. By strengthening the linkages between the whole budget process cycle and citizens‟ participation, participatory budgeting can improve democratic practices.

1.5 Public Participation Process and Methodology

The Garissa budget estimates public participation was done on 20th February 2024 and was held in every sub county and the program was led by sub county administrators, office of inter-governmental relations and public participation and the budget department.

MPs put NLC on spot over alleged plot to aid cartels grab KICC land

Committee wants the NLC chiefs to explain why it handed over to Nairobi county

MOSES ODHIAMBO
@AllwaMoses

MPs are mulling inviting investigative agencies to probe an alleged plot by insiders at the National Land Commission to alienate prime land belonging to the Kenyatta International Convention Centre.

Members of the National Assembly's Public Investments Committee on Commercial Affairs and Energy want the NLC chiefs to explain why it handed over the land to the Nairobi county.

KICC falls under the national government.

This is after it emerged that NLC had written to the county government as the vesting authority for the land, where Garden Square restaurant and Comesa parking lot sit.

This means the county government holds the power to decide who is allocated the land.

An executive at the county can request NLC to carry out the reallocation.

The committee chaired by Pokot South MP David Pkosing is asking why the NLC acted in favour of 'cartels' interested in the disputed land.

The court said in July 2022 that Garden City remits rent to the National Land Commission for onward transfer to the county government of Nairobi.

The court directed that the NLC allocates the land to the rightful owners, after which the KICC applied for ownership of the land.

It has since emerged that Garden Square management also approached the NLC requesting to be allocated the land.

Instead of responding to the requests, the NLC wrote to the county government – as owner of the land – to decide who should be allocated.

"NLC must declare interest in this matter. There is suspicion that needs to be investigated. We see a game here. You cannot imagine that KICC has no title for its land," Pkosing said.

"There are some people who are working with cartels on this matter. We will not shy from inviting the DCI to take statements from the concerned parties so that they tell us their interest."

MPs have given the NLC bosses one week to prepare a solid response on the claims before the committee sits next week Thursday.

ENDING FRAUD

Cabinet gives school chiefs 30 days to digitise operations

THE STAR/ Cabinet has directed the Ministry of Education to digitise the sector within 30 days to end fraud and exploitation of parents.

At a meeting chaired by President William Ruto, at State House on Wednesday, Cabinet said capitation funds the government sends to schools must only be spent on "real children".

The meeting said digitisation was being sabotaged and cited the 10,000 national examination candidates government paid for but never turned up for the exams.

"Resistance to paying fees through e-Citizen is by those who have created parallel bank accounts, the way parallel pay bills have been set up across the public service," Ruto said.

Cabinet said digitisation must be extended to technical and vocational education institutions and universities, including the Higher Education Loans Board.

Meanwhile, Cabinet said Kenya will host three conferences this year.

Between February 26 and March 1, the sixth session of the United Nations Environment Assembly will be held at Unep. Five thousand delegates have confirmed attendance.
